Spokane Falls Community College avenged an earlier loss to the Montana Cubs with a 72-52 decision of the UM first-year men Monday night in Spokane.

The Cubs, who have had only four practice sessions since a three-week holiday layoff, fell behind 29-15 at the half and were beaten 51-32 on the boards by the Spartans.

Missoula Hellgate product Mike Steinberg was the only Cub to score in double figures. He had a game high 21 points.

Montana's leading scorer Bruce Groesbeck managed only two points in the contest but his free throw shooting streak remained intact. Groesbeck entered the game with a string of 22 straight free throw conversions. He did not get a foul shot Monday night.

However, the Cubs connected on eight of nine free throw attempts and now have an excellent 82 per cent conversion figure at the charity stripe through four games.

The Cubs take a 2-2 season record into weekend games with Idaho and Gonzaga's JV squads.
